

National Standards In-service

If after attending this workshop you would like more support in developing a plan for implementation, we can conduct an in-house workshop with your staff and volunteer coordinator to examine the way ahead for your organisation.

Topic: National Standards for Volunteer Involvement

This workshop will assist you in benchmarking your organisation against the industry's best practice as outlined in the National Standards for Volunteer Involvement. These Standards were developed in 2015 by Volunteering Australia with thorough consultation with the sector. The result is a user friendly guide of best practice for volunteer management that is adaptable to the diversity of organisations, large and small that it relates to.

This workshop will provide you with an overview of the Standards, along with resources and reading to educate yourself further. During the workshop you will receive some practical advice on implementing the Standards in your workplace, while discussing ideas and concerns. Ultimately you will end up with the start of an Action Plan to and understanding of what the next steps are for your organisation towards implementing the National Standards for Volunteer Involvement.

This workshop is ideal for anyone with governance or management responsibility, or volunteer managers or coordinators. By looking at best practice and identifying how your organisation is and can improve, you will work towards improving your organisational outcomes and protect the asset that is your volunteers.

- Date: Tuesday 25 September 2018
Time: 9am – 2:30pm (includes refreshments and lunch)
Where: Fossickers Room, Civic Centre, 32 Mellor Street, Gympie
Cost: $110 (inc. GST)

Please register as places are limited:

Email Carley O'Donnell at volunteer@chsn.org.au

For further information call Carley O'Donnell on 0408 992 822

Supported by:

